NYPC makes a difference:

Giving back: New York Puzzle Company decided to take its environmental engagement one step further by becoming a member of 1% for the Planet. This means we pledge 1% of the sale of each puzzle to environmental non-profits committed to creating a healthy Planet. Find out more about 1% for the planet and our partner non-profits at www.newyorkpuzzlecompany.com.

Made in the USA: We take pride in the fact that all of our puzzles, totes and cards are fully manufactured in the United States. This means we can assure they are all top quality products made for you locally by people making a living wage.

100% RECYCLED CARDBOARD

Environmental Responsibility: One of New York Puzzle Company's core values is its dedication to environmental responsibility. We make every effort to reduce our impact on the environment while providing you with an artistic and entertaining product. The shrinkwrap for our box is recyclable. We use 100% recycled chipboard for all of our boxes and puzzles. Our printing is done with soy inks. So when it is time for this puzzle to pass into its next phase, rest assured that it is fully recyclable and compostable. Also, even our totes are made from organic cotton!

A Tale of Two Artists.

This year we are very excited to announce our partnership with two wildly talented women artists. They each have their own unique aesthetic, sure to appeal to various clientele. Loré Pemberton's cozy New England feel evokes summers spent in cabins amongst pine trees, sweater weather and snuggly fires. Victo Ngai has a distinctly Ukiyo-e feel and takes much of her inspiration from her Chinese heritage. These two diverging sensations add to the depth and breadth of our offerings, and we hope they will make just the right addition to your store's story as well.

We have over 45 new offerings all together so take your time to browse, see what is new and as always, we look forward to your questions, comments, feedback and orders in 2023!

FAQ's

Will my business still be able to receive show promotions?

Yes, we love show promotions!

Am I able to see my current status or how much more I need to ship?

Yes! Program levels/benefits will be listed on order confirmations, invoices or viewed on our wholesale portal (NYPC CENTRAL). If viewing from NYPC CENTRAL you will be able to see how much has shipped and how many dollars need to ship in order to advance in the program. Or, Ask your sales rep! Your local sales rep is happy to assist you with questions regarding this program.

If I have more than one store do all of my stores qualify for the program?

Shipped sales are tracked by account. If you have one billing address for all stores you will accrue shipped sales and soar through the program! If each store has its own billing address each store will have to qualify with shipped sales.

Benefits start on the first order shipped after each spending threshold and will last until the end of the following year. As an example, status achieved in 2023 will begin in 2023 and expire on December 31, 2024.

Known for her conservation as well as her illustration, Beatrix Potter started her career as a natural scientist and illustrator of scientific journals. She first created the beloved Peter Rabbit back in 1902 using ideas from letters she had written to the children of her former governess.

Her first book was an instant success and was followed quickly by twenty-two additional stories featuring the tales of various woodland creatures.

Her lively illustrations and vivid depictions of the English countryside continue to delight children and adults alike.

Did you know?

Henry Stahlhut was credited for many of Gourmet magazine's illustrated covers. Stahlhut illustrated the very first issue of Gourmet in January 1941 and continued to contribute to the magazine's artistic covers until the 1960s, before the magazine shifted to photographic covers. These mouth watering covers are now coveted and collected as each illustration stands on its own as a work of art.

Jim Golden on the Beachcomber Collection: "I was initially taken by the color palette of all the garbage – the muted hues of plastics and metal worn down by the elements. I then realized how much of it there was, and it disturbed me as well. How could there be this much garbage on such desolate beaches? It made me realize that no beach is untouched by this crisis, and an idea started to form. How could I make an image interesting enough to make people stop, take a look, and then realize the beauty in the image is also a nightmare?"

color photos framed by the iconic yellow border we know today. These covers tell us the history of science, technology, travel, and culture as well as the history of the magazine itself.

The National Geographic Photo Ark uses the power of photography to inspire people to help protect species before it's too late.

WITHOUT THEM, THERE IS NO US

The interaction between animals and their environments is the engine that keeps the planet healthy for all of us. But for many species, time is running out. When you remove one, it affects us all. The National Geographic Photo Ark is a multiyear effort to raise awareness of, and find solutions to, some of the most pressing issues affecting wildlife and their habitats. Lead by National Geographic photographer Joel Sartore, the project aims to document every species living in the world's zoos and wildlife sanctuaries, inspire action through education, and help protect wildlife by supporting on-the-ground conservation efforts.

New York Puzzle Company is proud to be teaming up with this initiative and present these fascinating animals to you in puzzle and playing card form.

Artist feature:

Jean-Jacques Sempé

Jean-Jacques Sempé was a French cartoonist. Born in 1932 in Bordeaux, his early years were bumpy, getting expelled from school and bouncing from job to job until landing in the army where he would get reprimanded for drawing on duty. After being discharged, he began to have success with humoristic drawings first being published in French publications and then finding their way to his first New Yorker cover in 1978. He went on to publish almost 90 covers for the New Yorker, as well as several cartoons. His work is light and airy, laden with humor and irony but also hope, beauty, and joy. He passed away in August 2022.

Hailing from Nottingham, United Kingdom, Paul Thurlby is an award winning illustrator who has amassed The Guardian, Tate Enterprises, John Lewis, Templar Publishing and The New Yorker amongst his list of clients.

His first book, a children's alphabet book, debuted in 2011, and he has since published seven additional books featuring numbers, wildlife, cities and art.

The retro aesthetic he uses in his work stems from his passion for vintage posters. Bold and beautiful, his work uses traditional media to draw objects that are then scanned and re-assembled into art.

De Sève has also contributed to such films as Finding Nemo, Robots, The Little Prince and The Grinch to name only a few. His many distinctions include the prestigious Hamilton King Award from the Society of Illustrators and an Emmy Award for best character design in a television show (Sesame Street). Sunset Magazine is a lifestyle magazine focused on life in the Western United States.

Formed in 1898 as a promotional magazine for the Southern Pacific Railroad, the magazine was intended to combat the negative "Wild West" stereotypes about California. The magazine faced early problems after the 1906 San Francisco earthquake destroyed the Sunset offices but recovered fairly quickly thereafter. By 1912 the magazine was doing well enough to purchase Portland-based magazine Pacific Monthly and combined the two to form Sunset: The Pacific Monthly.

Sunset cover art in its early years was of high quality since it was published during the golden age of magazine illustration. Contributors of cover art included Will James, Maynard Dixon and Cornelia Barns, amongst others.

When the New York Subway opened in 1904, its founders declared that the system was a “great public work”, where every design element showed respect for customers and improved the experience of travel through beauty and design.

Continuing on this philosophy, in 1985 the Metropolitan Transportation Authority of New York created the MTA Arts & Design, formerly known as the Arts for Transit and Urban Design. The program commissions art from artists all throughout New York. Since its formation, the MTA Arts & Design has installed art in more than 260 transit stations.

Over 300 artists have been commissioned for the program, including graphic artists, photographers, musicians, and poets.

Victo Ngai is a Los Angeles-based artist raised in Hong Kong. The work of this Forbes 30 Under 30 (Art and Style) honoree and Society of Illustrators Gold Medalist has often been described as magical realism. Each creation in Victo's world is layered with symbolism and stories that reveal more each time the viewer is engaged. The visual results of her artistic journey take inspiration in part from her Chinese heritage, an art education from the Rhode Island School of Design, a love for classic children's books, and Japanese ukiyo-e.

Dream Wedding

“Let us make our weddings picturesque,” was the editor’s clarion call, and plea, in the April 1919 Brides issue. “Vogue seeks to give suggestions that will transform that correct and proper charm of that correct and proper wedding into something which more nearly approached the dream that every woman knows.” George Wolfe Plank was tapped to conjure a bridal reverie for the cover. Taking center stage is a fantastical creature bride who steps out from a forest of draperies blooming in flowers and a dove-adorned headdress, illustrating what form a bride dressed in the “the perennial silver of fairyland” could take.

Lady on a Zebra

A.E. Marty crafted one of Vogue's most fantastical covers with a sure hand and clean lines. At first glance the reader might not even notice that this modestly dressed, veiled, beheaded, and bepearled adventuress sits astride a rearing zebra, rather than a steed, as three giraffes wander in the distance. Here was an imaginative "fashion travelogue" that spoke to the issue's theme, Southern Fashions—"the great migration to sunny climes"—and "those small accents of so vast importance to chic—the wearing of the scarf, the tilting of the hat, and similar weighty details" that add to the element of fantasy in fashion. This cover inspired the editors of the New York Herald Tribune to pen an essay on the combination of "convention and novelty" and the "juxtaposition of old matter and fresh forms." Vogue both contributed to and reported on (sometimes with a wink) the great changes happening in the 1920s. In response to the paper's editorial, the magazine stressed "Vogue's desire to promote all that is new in art...regardless of whether it belongs to the literal school of art or to the imaginative school—a school that can not be explained accurately through the medium of words."

What makes our gifts so great?

- Better Boxes: Our 8" x 10" x 1.875" thick puzzle boxes use less cardboard in production, which allows us to fit more puzzles per case pack. This helps lower our shipping costs and allows you to fit more products on your shelves.
- Best Images: Do you feel like you have seen these images somewhere before? Yes! On your favorite magazines and books. We have partnered with top artists and publishing houses such as Condé Nast, Warner Brothers and Penguin Random House to portray their iconic art on all our products. You'll find them exclusively here at New York Puzzle Company.
- Top Quality:
  - Our puzzles are made with 100% recycled chipboard.
  - 80-point chipboard thickness. That's 20% higher than most standard made puzzles.
  - Linen-style paper used on all puzzles since 2014 to reduce glare while playing.
  - All puzzles are shaken before being boxed to help reduce the amount of puzzle dust.
  - Highest quality ceramic mugs with elegant, yet strong, fabrication.
  - Playing Cards are Casino Quality.
