A NOTE FROM THE CEO

At Project Genius, our mission has always been to create smart, beautiful puzzles. But, as we grew, that mission expanded to something deeply personal: providing job training for adults with autism. My son, Eli, is 21 years old and will soon leave the structure of public school. He faces the daunting reality that 85% of adults with autism are unemployed. This inspired us to create a job training program that not only teaches hard skills but also the soft skills needed to succeed in the workplace.

Every order you place does more than support our business – it helps build a future of inclusion and opportunity. By choosing our puzzles, you are giving adults with autism the chance to work, learn, and thrive in a supportive environment.

Your support creates real change, offering dignity, purpose, and the opportunity to contribute meaningfully. You are helping us build a world where adults with autism are productive, valued members of the workforce – a future as thoughtfully crafted as our puzzles.
