Classic

It all started when a 4 year old asked his dad to help him 3D print his own toy.

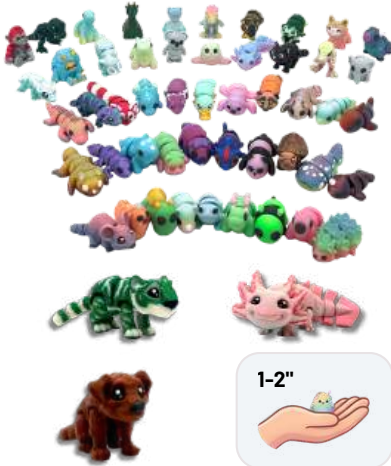

That bearded dragon was such a hit with friends that the Rivard family began creating more, quickly growing from a small home setup selling on TikTok to a busy print farm launching into the wholesale business. Named after Adam's dad, "Bumpa," the brand celebrates creativity, family, and hands-on building. Your customers love 3D toys and would love to have more options, but you need to ensure you are putting quality products in their hands.

With Adam's aerospace manufacturing background and over 70 printers running around the clock (with the next expansion underway), Bumpa brings precision and scale to every Bippit they create. Their retail storefront in Somers, CT doubles as a testing ground, letting them perfect both products and store experiences before rolling out to retail partners. Several years later, that original 4 year old and his brother are the honorary play testers and quality control team, proof that Bippits deliver years of joyful, hands-on play. What began as one simple print is now a family-powered mission to spark imagination in communities everywhere.
